Hall's Men Suffer Intensely From the Heat.

Han Ireds Drop From the Ranks In a Twelve-Mile March.

L'ilipinos Alleged to Have Outwitted the American General-Rebels Use Cannon.

Manila, June 6 .- The extreme heat continues and the sick list increases daily. General Hall's march from Santa Teresa to Morong yesterday was a trying one. It was up and down rocky hills and through swamps. The men were worn out before six miles of the march had been covered. Insurgent skirmishers along the route worried the soldiers and shots were ex-

Over two hundred men fell out of the they were left to follow as best they could. It is reported that several of the exhausted after the main force had reached Hall's this was necessary is not explained.

It is learned that General Hall was deceived by the wily Filipinos. During the march he was met by large bands of natives carrying flags of truce. These bands were personally inspected by Hall, and he allowed them to pass through the American lines. It was afterward learned that the natives were soldiers, as they had discarded their army costumes for those of friendlies. Their arms were found conccaled in the bush and in houses. The Morong campaign was arranged with the idea of corralling the insurgents on the penin-sular, and Hall permitted them to escape. It is said fully 1,200 passed boldly through the American lines.

The troops at San Fernando are annoyed at night by the insurgents. They have several Krupp guns with which they fire headquarters Saturday evening.

Another conference on the Philippine situation was held at the White House late intuation was neld at the White House late last night between President McKinley and Adjutant General Corbin. An important despatch from General Otis bearing on the situation in the Philippines was discussed. This cablerram came sarely extremely act. This cablegram came early yesterday afternoon but War Department officials refuse to make it public. It is igarned that it not only related to the movement on the Morong peninsular, but to the prospects for peace. It is hinted in some quarters that, while Mr. Storer may have performed his part of the programme, presented his papers and been accepted, the Spanish news censor may have suppressed the cablegrams intended to inform America that such was the case; yet it would be strange if the news censor were permitted to intercept communications between the United States Government and its accredited minister.
Another wild theory is that Mr. Storer may have been taken by brigands while is that unexpected illness or delays in traveling arrangements may have prevented his appearance in the Spanish capital.

CIVIL SERVICE ORDER MAY BE AMENDED

Assistant Postmasters Not in the Excepted List.

Commissioners Decline to Discuss the President's Action.

Recommendations, Submitted Over a Year Ago.

From a reliable source it was learned this morning that the President's recent order throwing down the bars of civil service reform will soon be amended to meet some of the criticisms indulged in by the civil service reformers. It is pointed out today that under the civil service ru'es as amended by President McKinley, assistant postmasters, whether by design or otherwise, were dropped from the excepted list, and that postmasters hereafter must call on the Civil Service Commission to fill the office of assistant, unless, of course, the postmaster decides to make a promotion or asks for the transfer of a

In this connection it will be seen that none of the various local applicants for Assistant Postmaster of Washington would have been eligible for appointment, unless, however, they were in the classified ser-vice or had been in the employ of the Gov-ernment. This question, it was stated this morning, did not enter into the selection of Chief Clerk Madison Davis for Assistant Postmaster, who is eligible for the office under the recent civil service order. Postmaster Merritt, who will take charge of the City Postoffice on the 1st of July, said to a Times reporter this morning that he knew about the change made by the Presi-dent in the amended civil service rules, but as yet the Civil Service Commission had given no decision on the subject. In regard to the proposition to give Admiral Dewey a house he said: "With all due respect to those having charge of the plan to give Admiral Dewey a house, it seems to me the Admiral first should have been consulted. From my knowledge of the man, I think he would prefer a monument or a fund like that given to Kitchner by the British. I do not think he vants a house in Washington or anywhere

GEORGE W. HORTON SENTENCED TO DEATH

Court Refuses the Murderer a New Trial.

Prisoner to Be Hanged November 10 Next.

Condemned Man Silent and Apparently Indifferent to His Fate. Notice of Appeal.

The arguments on the motion for a new trial and arrest of judgment in the case some time ago of the tsurder of Jane Nicholson, were begun this morning in Criminal Court No. 1, before Justice Clabaugh. The defendant, Horton, was brought into court and took his seat immediately behind his counsel. His actions were much the same as they were during the eight days he was on trial for his life. In appearance he was greatly altered. Covering his face was a growth of short beard. As on one or two days during his trial, Horton wore a pair of spectacles. As soon as he took his seat, he fixed his gaze upon the ceiling as he had dene on each day during the trial. The counsel for the defence maintained main verdicts to be considered were guilty by reason of insanity, guilty as indicted, by reason of insanity, guilty as indicted, which involved the death penalty, and guilty as indicted without capital punishment, although the court stated that a verdict of manslaughter might be considered, virtually precluded its consideration by the jury. At the conclusion of Mr. Wells' argument, who was the only one of the de-fendant's attorneys who spoke on the sub-ject, Justice Clahaugh overruled the mo-tion without waiting to hear from the counsel for the Government. The defendant was then called upon to stand and be sentenced. While Horton was standing Justice Clabaugh askel: "George W. Horton, have you anything to say why sentence of death shall not be imposed upon you?" The defendant, looking squarely at the justice, and without the slightest quiver in his voice, answered, "Nothing," Justice Clabaugh then sentenced Horton to be hanged on Friday, November 16, Horton was then taken to his cell ir the basement of the building by Deputy Marshals Wilkinson and Cook.

The counsel for the defendant gave notice that an appeal from the judgment of the court would be taken to the Court of Appeals for the District.

None of Horton's relatives was in the courtroom during the priceedings this to Investigate the Transportation Problem. The first June session of the Industrial to appear in court."

A Vienna, Ga., special says: "John Han-noway, white, who attempted to assault the little daughter of N. L. Christmas, pleaded guilty in the special session of the county court here today. He was given the limit of the law and was senteneed to twenty years by Judge Littlefohn. Two hours later he was on his way to Macon, where he will be kept until assigned to a convict camp."

The first June session of the Industrial Commission was held this morning. Mat-ters of business relative to the prosecution of investigations in contemplation were considered and disposed of. The course of the investigation in the trust question has been fully outlined and the business ses-sions of the Commission will, in nearly all cases, be devoted to perfecting plans for cases, be devoted to perfecting plans for investigations to be deducted later. Prof. Emery Johnson, of the University of Pennsylvania, who was appointed by the Commission to prepare and submit a plan to be followed in the investigation of the transportation question, and make pre inary investigations which will aid the Commission, was present at this morning's session and made certain recommendations which will be considered by the Commission. He recommends that the invstiga-tions be carried out with the special ob-

The investigation of the various phases of the transportation question will probably be the next comparatively new work taken up by the Commis-Although the investigation will not begin in earnest until after the comple-tion of the trust enquiry, it is thought that some of the witnesses on transportational questions will be heard next fall immediately after the Commission meets in September. Some attention has been paid by the Commission to the subject but the investigations previously carried on have dealt more especially with the condicorporations. Three questions included in Prof. Johnson schedule have not as yet received any attention and as they are ones which are of more or less importance o the welfare of the public the members of the Commission thought it expedient to take them up.

Representative Bell, of Colorado, a member of the Commission, has at his own re-quest been placed on the subcommission on transportation. Commissioner Bell is at present a member of the subcommission on mining. He is much interested in the railroad investigation and is familiar with many of the phases of transportation as
